Revd John Homer Killick –

what could have been

You will all know, I'm sure, the book written by one of our former vicars, Revd Canon Paul Denby, Two into One will Go. It was written as a history of the two churches of Old St George and New St George, and the coming together of them to form St George. If you would like a copy, we still have some available at a cost of £2.95, so please have a word with either the Wardens or myself.

One of the members of St Paul's Staley, George Maddock, a former member of St George's, has also been writing a history of St Paul's. Whilst in the process, he came across a clergyman by the name of Revd John Homer Killick, who was curate of St George's from 1870 -1871, during the Leeson era. Some very fascinating facts have come to light, not only about Revd Killick, but about St George's too.

The reason it did not appear in the book, is that Revd Killick was just the curate, and not the vicar, so not a great deal of importance was attributed to him. However, it would transpire that Revd Killick was appointed as curate-in-charge before the appointment of Revd Henry Hutchinson in 1871.

After Revd Frederick Leeson left St George's, John Killick was asked to step in and maintain worship and services there. He found a congregation of between 15 and 20 people, and the church lying under a dense and dark cloud, with the building being described as a "wreckage" – and that's just 30 years after it was consecrated. What that meant, we really don't know. But he set about building up the congregation to about 250 people, and brought the building to its former glory. He established a school in Spring Street and needless to say, his popularity grew.

However, when Frederick Leeson died, and despite the expressed wishes of the wardens, Mr Killick was not offered the incumbency, and left to take up a post as curate at Bolton Parish Church, followed by a curacy at Preston Parish Church. From there, he accepted a post of chaplain to the Bishop of Calcutta (now Kolkata) based in Jeypore. He and his wife set sail on the steamer Europa, but tragedy struck when the ship was only four days away from the port of Bombay (Mumbai) and Mr Killick became ill through sunstroke and sadly died on 13 June 1875, aged just 34 years old.

This is indeed a tale of what could have been. Alas, we'll never know.

The full write-up has now been put on our website as an addition to Paul Denby's book and I would commend it to you. George Maddock has also kindly written a shorter article for our magazine and this will appear shortly.

As an advance notice, we will again be celebrating, at our service on Sunday 1 November at 3.30 pm, the lives of our loved ones who have died. During the service, their names will be read out and there will be the opportunity to light a candle in their memory. This is an uplifting service and you are all welcome to attend.

With best wishes

Philip

A great way to share the Christmas Story

The Real Advent Calendar is a fun way for parents, grandparents and Godparents to share the Christmas story. The calendar is the only charity advent calendar with a free 32 page Christmas story activity booklet illustrated by Sophie Allsopp and designed to be used every day in Advent.

Behind each of the 24 windows there is a Fairtrade chocolate (a different character for each day) and a few words from the Christmas story.

As well as celebrating the true meaning of Christmas, the chocolate is Fairtrade ensuring that farmers in the developing world receive a good price for their produce. The calendar makes a charity donation, from every sale, to Traidcraft Exchange and the Funzi & Bodo Trust.

We would love you to help someone celebrate the real meaning of Christmas this year by giving them a Real Advent Calendar but supplies are limited and these usually sell out quickly - so buy early.

The cost of The Real Advent Calendar is £3.99 and if you would like place an order there is a list in St George's Room or please see Rose Hayward.

Saint of the Month

10 October Thomas Traherne,
Poet, Spiritual Writer, 1674

The son of a shoemaker, Thomas Traherne was born in Hereford in 1637.

A relative with the financial means provided for his education at Brasenose College, Oxford. Ordained in 1660, he held the living of Credenhill in Herefordshire until his death. But he was largely an absentee, spending most of his time at Oxford, where he took a Bachelor of Divinity degree, with only occasional visits to his parish. In 1667 he moved to London as chaplain to Sir Orlando Bridgeman, the Lord Keeper of the Seals to Charles II. When Bridgeman retired, Traherne remained his personal chaplain and lived with him at Teddington until his own death in 1674.

Traherne's only published work during his lifetime was Roman Forgeries (1673), a polemical work which claimed that significant Roman Catholic documents were forged, and the year after his death Christian Ethicks was published.

Traherne was largely forgotten until the late 1890s, when two handwritten volumes of poetry and prose were discovered, quite by chance, at a London bookstall. Thought at first to be by the metaphysical poet Henry Vaughan, they were eventually identified as works of the long-forgotten Traherne. Edited for publication, they appeared as Poems in 1903 and Centuries of Meditation in 1908. Another manuscript volume, containing a considerable number of unpublished poems, was discovered in the British Museum and published as Poems of Felicity in 1910.

Traherne's poetic style is marked by a distinctive musical quality and strikingly original imagery. There is a sense of rejoicing and the celebration of innocent wonder, and a delight in the presence of God in his creation. Two stanzas of the poem Wonder give some flavour of Traherne's style and subject matter:

The skies in their magnificence,
The lively, lovely air;
Oh how divine, how soft, how sweet, how fair!
The stars did entertain my sense,
And all the works of God, so bright and pure,
So rich and great did seem,
As if they ever must endure
In my esteem.

A native health and innocence
Within my bones did grow,
And while my God did all his glories show,
I felt a vigour in my sense
That was all spirit. I within did flow
With seas of life, like wine;
I nothing in the world did know
But 'twas divine.

October

What of October? A month that is lost
Twixt warmth of September, and November frost?
It's not really winter, and though the leaves fall
The month of October is nothing at all!

A month spent regretting the summer now gone?
A month spent in dreading the winter to come?
A month spent in labour, in sorrow, not song?
A month when we're sad at the loss of the sun?

Yet October's a month with much that can please!
The gath'ring of fruit and the gold on the trees!
The dew on the web and the stars up above –
Yes! Truly October's a month that I love!

By Nigel Beeton
